

South Wales Fire and Rescue Service host UKRO Challenge

Due to a surge in visitors to the area terrestrial networks were stretched beyond the usual capacity. Excelebrate's range of deployable solutions ensured high quality and reliable communications were available at the event at all times.

The Command Pod was strategically positioned at the Wales Millennium Centre to give enhanced and extended coverage across the vicinity.

LTE handsets were provided for secure and private voice communications so that the medical assessor could listen in on the medical trauma exercise from a safe distance, without obstructing any of the participating responders.

A number of deployable cameras provided live video feeds of the event back to the command post delivering a full view of the challenges taking place.
